Ro. And badst me bury loue.
Fri. Not in a graue,
To lay one in, another out to haue.
Ro. I pray thee chide me not, her I loue now Doth grace for grace, and loue for loue allow:
The other did not so.
Fri. O she knew well,
Thy loue did read by rote, that could no spell:
But come yong Wauerer, come and goe with me,
In one respect Ile thy assistant be:
For this Alliance may so happie proue,
To turne your housholds rancor to pure loue.
Rom. O let vs hence, I stand on sudden hast.
Fri. Wisely and slow, they stumble that run fast.

Exeunt.

Enter Benuolio and Mercutio.

Mer. Where the Deu'le should this Romeo be? came hee not home to night?
Ben. Not to his fathers, I spoke with his man.
Mer. Why that same pale hard-hearted wench, that Rosaline Torments him so, that he will sure run mad.
Ben. Tibalt, the Kinsman to old Capulet, hath sent a Letter to his fathers house.
Mer. A challenge on my life.
Ben. Romeo will answere it.
Mer. Any man that can write may answere a Letter.
Ben, Nay, he will answere the Letters Master, how he dares being dared.
Mer. Alas, poore Romeo, hee is alreadie dead, stab'd with a white Wenches blacke Eye, run through the eare with a Loue-Song, the very Pinne of his heart, cleft with the blinde Bow-boyes But-shaft, and is he a man to encounter Tibalt?
Rom. Why, what is Tibalt?
Mer. More then Prince of Cats. O hee's the couragious Captaine of Complements: he fights as you sing Prick-song, keepes time, distance and proportion, hee rests his minum rests, one two and the third in your bosome: the very Butcher of a silke silke button, a dualist, a dualist, a Gentleman of th house of the first and second cause, ah the immort

the punto reuerso, the Hay.
Ben. The what?
Mer. The Pox of such antique lisping affect cies, these new tuners of accent: by Iesu a very go very tall man, a very good whore. Why is not this ble thing grandsir, that wee should be thus afflicte strange flies: these fashion-mongers, these pardona stand so much on the new forme, that they cannot the old bench. O their bones, their bones.

Enter Romeo.

Ben. Here comes Romeo, here comes Romeo.
Mer. Without his Roe, like a dryed Hering, O how art thou fishified? now is he for the numbers th flowed in: Laura to his Lady, was a kitchin wench, had a better loue to berime her: Dido a dowdie, Gipsie, Helten and Hero, hildings and harlots: Th eye or so, but not to the purpose. Signior Romeo Bo a French saluation to your frenchslop: you gaue v terfeit fairely last night.
Rom. Good morrow to you both, what coun giue you?
Mer. the slip sir, the slip, can you not conceiue?
Romeo. Pardon good Mercutio, my businesse wa in such a case as mine, a man may straine curtesie.
Mer. Thats as much as to say, such a case as straines a man to bow in the hams.
Romeo. Meaning to curtsie.
Mer. Thou hast most kindly hit it.
Rom. A most curteous exposition.
Mer. Nay, I am the very pincke of curtesie:
Romeo. Pinck for flower.
Mer. Right.
Romeo. Why then is my pump well flowred.
Mer. Sure wit, follow mee this ieast, now til worne out thy pump, that when the single sole of i